

MONIKA STRICKER

(1978, Düsseldorf, DE)

- vive e lavora a Bruxelles, Belgio, BE)

Monika Stricker ha studiato alla Kunstakademie di Düsseldorf e ha proseguito la sua formazione durante la residenza presso Wiels a Bruxelles.

I dipinti di Monika Stricker hanno una vocazione classica ma la sua pittura restituisce spesso un senso di provvisorietà e i suoi soggetti inaspettati non lasciano mai indifferenti.

Dopo alcuni anni in cui l'artista si è dedicata a dipingere uomini senza volto a gambe aperte che esibiscono in primo piano la propria anatomia privata del pene, un'identità mutilata, perché privata di ciò che identifica il potere del maschio nella società patriarcale, con questa mostra Monika Stricker affronta nuovi soggetti, tutti originati, come racconta l'artista stessa, dal rapporto con le sue stesse fantasie e fascinazioni. Figure indefinite che perdono ogni riferimento, primati nell'atto di allattare, cani, piedi, i nuovi soggetti della Stricker sono un pretesto per parlare di relazioni intime, della condizione esistenziale dell'essere umano. "Faccio arte per dare agli altri i miei problemi" recita una nota citazione attribuita a Mike Kelley e che si adatta anche al lavoro di Monika Stricker.

E forse il senso di tutto ciò lo coglie bene Marta Papini nel suo testo critico, notando che "qualunque soggetto l'artista rappresenti, che si tratti di uomini nudi, cani o scimpanzè, le opere di Stricker ci mettono di fronte a una sfrontata vulnerabilità. Al loro cospetto siamo fuori dalla nostra comfort zone, siamo voyeur imbarazzati, testimoni di relazioni intime, di sottomissione e interdipendenza".
